Volunteering can be life changing. For whom?

We are very lucky to live in a community where people do care. Since its inception in 1998, the Arts Commission has been honored to be guided by our volunteer board. The board members meet regularly, as determined by our bylaws. All not-for-profit organizations depend on individuals willing to give of personal time to fulfill this legal requirement.

More importantly, board members determine the path an organization will follow to carry out its mission. They hire, supervise, and evaluate the staff; oversee the development of programs; and review the financial health necessary to carry out those programs.

During the past two years, perhaps more than ever, board membership has been called upon to weigh ever changing conditions and options to reach out creatively to serve the community. The arts landscape may have shifted, but the commitment to meet that challenge does not change.

As the Arts Commission grows, new programs are being introduced to engage the broader community. Summer concerts, workshops, exhibits, special activities, and so much more are on the agenda for 2022.

Whether you are interested in a Board position or would like to help with a special activity, we have a place for you. You are welcome to join our bandwagon! Contact Mimi at arts@historicdanvilleky.com

The Arts Commission of Danville/Boyle County serves as an advocate and supporter of the arts in Danville and Boyle County, Kentucky.

It fulfills this mission in the following ways:

- Promoting and facilitating the work of individual artists, arts organizations, and related cultural activities.
- Making art available to young people and helping to develop future generations of artists.
- Providing technical support for existing and future arts organizations whenever possible.
- Serving as a bridge between artists and varied educational, governmental, and business communities.

Times and methods change, but availability, opportunity, and engagement in the arts will always be our commitment to our extended community. The Arts Commission looks forward to being a partner in the growth of the arts for many years to come.

This month is all about joining in!

If you missed the holiday concert at the Presbyterian Church, you will soon have another chance to hear the Danville Sings adult choirs at their spring performance. But, wait! You don't have to just sit and listen. The choirs are beginning the new season AND have plenty of space for new members. You will be treated to a wonderful musical community experience. No formal choral music training is necessary. Contact barbara.hall@centre.edu for information.

Danville Sings this Spring!

NEWS & NOTES

Isabella La Rocca Gonzalez, Centre College professor, Spanish interpreter, health advocate, has two pieces in the Kentucky Arts Council touring exhibit featuring Hispanic artists. The exhibit is scheduled to be at the Art Center of the Bluegrass from March 16 – 30. For a complete schedule of the exhibit locations, contact the Kentucky Arts Council.

John Dixon, collage artist, is featured in an exhibit at the John G. Irvin Art Gallery at Central Bank, 300 W. Vine in Lexington. The exhibit runs from now until March 2nd.

Danville High School and John W. Bate art classes have received a grant to study public art and its place in a community. At the completion of the project, the students will create a mural under the direction of local artist Brandon Long.

Time to get back to the quilt restoration project. Volunteers are needed to help stitch over the finish line. No sewing experience or materials are needed. Contact the Arts Commission for scheduled work sessions with small groups for social distancing.
